

Gen Art Styles 2007 – International Design Awards and Runway Show

What's better than a runway show during a beautiful spring night in Manhattan? One that's a Gen Art event for sure. Sponsored by eos Airlines at the Hammerstein Ballroom, guests gathered for the 9th annual international design awards and runway show. During the accessories pre-reception, guests enjoyed complimentary drinks provided by Perrier, Moët & Chandon, and Tommy Bahama Rum, and mingled to the tunes spun by DJ Rene Arsenault.

As the lights began to dim, we knew we were in for a fashionista treat. Emcee Robert Verdi kept the tone light as the judging panel consisted of Cynthia Rowley, Fern Mallis, Isabel Dupre, Jeffrey Kalinsky, John Bartlett, Liya Kebede, Mary Alice Stephenson, Michael Vollbracht, Reem Acra, and Trina Turk. While Black Sheep took home the award for accessories, A3 won the category of menswear. Much to the crowd's delight, Dragona Rikanovic won the scissor statue for the avante garde genre while the hardware went to FORM for eveningwear.

After the votes were tallied and award speeches were given, such as the succinct A3's, "I love New York so much!", Manhattanites socialized towards the back of the Ballroom, serenaded by the live bongo drum band as we sipped our beverages and checked out the swag bag which included gifts from the Body Shop, Ecrú, and an issue of New York Magazine. All in all, another fun evening hosted by our friends at Gen Art.
